

Recommendation Letter for Amanda Teo

01 Apr 2023

I know Amanda from her role as UI/UX Intern at JoyfulPerson/JoyForm where I am currently serving as the CTO. Amanda and I worked closely specifically on our JoyfulPerson console (console.joyfulperson.com). During her first internship term, Amanda worked mostly on the design the console and its functionality from scratch and took ownership of all aspects of the design of the console.

Amanda is a designer who is able to exercise her creative expression with a huge consideration for engineering, which is a skill that is very rare for junior designers. The developers in my team have a very good rapport with her as her education background in information systems make it easier for her to envision her designs in code. This allows the communication across tech and design organisations to flow smoothly.

Amanda has a keen eye on success and works within the deadlines that are assigned to her. She asks very critical questions and guides design conversations towards desired outcomes. In the later part of her internship, she was promoted to take on a people management position, where she mentored interns within the design organisation, while continuing to take the lead on console, further enhancing features and responsiveness. This is in addition to her mentoring duties. Our team at JoyfulPerson are very fortunate to work with Amanda and I personally wish to get the chance to work with her again.
